A Missouri spring means barbecues, dogwoods and fishing expeditions. Unfortunately, it can also mean hail, lightning, strong winds and even floods. If your home, business or community is affected by severe weather, the Missouri Department of Natural Resources can help. The department's Web site provides information on how to dispose of debris from natural disasters, obtain financial assistance opportunities for communities and receive disaster response guidance for public water and wastewater facilities. For more information, visit the department's Web site at www.dnr.mo.gov.
